

parentheses

by mazaher
December 7, 2010

::

Late, so late. I am sorry. But now I am reading, and breathing, and I think that God is said to be omniscient and so He (She? It?) probably knows what this want means.
But being incorporeal, and when He/She/It was not, being chaste (or so they say),
He/She/It never tried, never felt, never had.
So "please" should rightly be something like
"Please, quit speaking like an old book, issuing legal orders, and either learn at last after countless eons to speak the language of physical life pulsing in veins and hearts and between legs, or be silent, and watch the miracle of love happening." Because sex is not the answer-- sex is the question, and
"yes" is the answer.
As humans say,
Bless you.

::